Sep 19, 2020 Trendmicro:Q: How to use singletons with MVC 4 I'm trying to implement a workaround for MVC 4's singleton caching the unique instance in a static variable. My code (Controller) looks like this: private static RouteData _RouteData { get; set; } public RouteData RouteData { get { return _RouteData; } set { if (_RouteData == value) { return; } _RouteData = value; CacheRoutes(); } } private static void CacheRoutes() { /* Loads the routes before MVC creates it */ RouteData.Values.Where(value => value.DefaultValues!= null).ToList(); } The caching works fine, but the problem is that the methods inside RouteData (e.g. DefaultValues) don't exist before the first use of the static variable _RouteData. Is there a way I could create the RouteData object before MVC creates the static variable, and still have it create it before each controller method that accesses RouteData? As I said, I'd love to avoid static state, but I'll take it. A: You could use a static method that performs the caching. public static void CacheRouteData(RouteCollection routes) { /* Loads the routes before MVC creates it */ RouteData.Values.Where(value => value.DefaultValues!= null).ToList(); } //usage public ActionResult Index() { CacheRouteData(RouteData); return View(); } Q: How to find the last two dates of a month in a long string? I have a string like this one: String date_string = "2014-01-03 15:28:56.675+02:00"; I want to retrieve the last two dates of this month (which is: January). How can I

The video – titled 'Phoenix Rising' – shows various members of the Elite Dangerous community mourning Oxland's passing at various moments. As opposed to the typical 'death' videos, 'Phoenix Rising' shows various members of the community, ranging from lighthearted to heart-touching moments, mourning Oxland's passing. The video took three weeks to film, and is the first of its kind in Elite Dangerous. The money raised from the video will go to Oxland's friends and family in order to memorialize his life. "I'm so sorry to hear about Mr. Oxland. It's been a long battle, but I know that you were always happy & grateful to your family for their dedication and unwavering support. They've shared so many of your photos, your favourite music, and all the other little things that helped preserve your memory. "We've known about the 570a42141b
